CLYNE DEMANDS
FULL AIRING OF
EVERY CHARGE

U. S. Report Urges
Cleanup in Office.

A thorough airing of all "veiled and vague" charges against his office was demanded by United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne last night after a study of the report made yesterday by Maj. Edgar B. Tolman and John E. Montgomery regarding affairs in the federal prosecutor's office for the last three years. Mr. Clyne will make a formal motion for such an investigation when the report comes before Judge Carpenter, where the investigation by Mr. Tolman and Mr. Montgomery originated.

The report made to Attorney General Daugherty by his special assistants is in the nature of a verdict of guilty as to "general conditions." Mr. Clyne comments on the fact that "not a single case is found where one of my assistants is charged with graft or corruption."

General reorganization of the office on nonpolitical lines and the appointment of a special prosecutor of "recognized ability and independence" are recommended in the report and emphasis is laid on delays in cases in Mr. Clyne's office. The charges made two months ago by Col. John V. Clinch are largely sustained.

Mr. Clyne's statement follows:

"In February of this year John V. Clinch, the assistant district attorney, presented a petition in the United States District court here, which briefly has been described by one of the district judges as a charge against every person employed in the federal building of misconduct and corruption of office."

The charge, while not against any one individual, indicates corruption on the part of public officers and also that corruption exists in the United States District court. No name, time, or place is given in the petition. Mr. Clinch has never offered, as far as is publicly known, any evidence to support his petition, although he has repeatedly promised to do so.

Investigators Named.

Subsequent to the filing of this petition the attorney general appointed Maj. Edgar B. Tolman and John H. Montgomery to conduct an investigation in the office of the United States district attorney for the purpose of ascertaining the facts, and their report has been made public today.

"There is nothing more contemptible in the minds of honest men and women in our system of government than corruption or the suspicion of corruption in public office."

"While I have had but a few hours to go over the report I wish to stress at this time that after five months of investigation not a single case is found where one of my assistants is charged with graft or corruption."

Estimate of Aids Confirmed.

"I was of the opinion that my assistants were men of integrity and this report confirms my estimate of them."

"Whether cases or complaints of violations of the laws of the United States are disposed of with more or less dispatch than may be found in other districts of the United States, and whether cases or complaints of violations of the laws have been given such consideration and care as may be possible to obtain elsewhere is a question that includes a great many considerations and these will be fully explained by me in the light of record notes as district attorney in this district."

Charges of Clinch.

The Clinch charges, in brief, were that "no bills" were returned when a proper presentation of evidence would have resulted in indictments, that cases were not pressed and dismissed when they should have been tried, that violations of the law were reported but never presented to the grand jury, that there has been a systematic and protected traffic in beer and other alcoholic beverages, and that certain lawyers have received advance information and have obtained for unusual fees the disposition of cases.

This latter charge, it was found, was somewhat vague, but it was declared that certain members of the bar are subject to censure and a further investigation is indicated.

Daugherty Declines Comment.

The attorney general, who was in town yesterday, declined to comment on the report beyond saying that no precipitate action was demanded and that he would take it up next week. It is understood he is to return to Chicago on page 4, column 2.

The report made to Attorney General Daugherty by his special assistants is in the nature of a verdict of guilty as to "general conditions." Mr. Clyne comments on the fact that "not a single case is found where one of my assistants is charged with graft or corruption."

General reorganization of the office on nonpolitical lines and the appointment of a special prosecutor of "recognized ability and independence" are recommended in the report and emphasis is laid on delays in cases in Mr. Clyne's office. ownership is the poison ivy in the garden of industry. Policy dictated by expedience of the moment, now and by the government and its contractors is a blight on the faith of the people. It is hypocrisy in government. I stand with you to help to get America out of this morass. America owns 1,300 steel ships that cost billions. They are operated by the government and private ownership is withered under it. Under the ship subsidy bill we can end a loss of $50,000,000 a year in thirty months.

Daugherty's Reply.

Mr. Daugherty replied briefly to this attack.

"I know there is a great difference of opinion," he said, "to the question of figures used and carried on all ships. I did not have that question before me as attorney general. That had been passed on by the people and you know that the people were obliged to follow the law. The question was a naked, legal law."

Mr. Daugherty then launched into an address on the power of the press and the power of the judiciary and the two basic influences in the nation. He said the slanted construction of the court could bring about a serious weakness in the machinery of justice.

Speaking of criticism of judges, he said:

"I have no patience with those who flounce and score a just cause because it suits their turn. I hold up the law contrary to selfish social, economic, or industrial interests. The growing disrespect of the constitution and the law which the federal judiciary has so faithfully protected and interpreted must be stopped. It must be brought to an abrupt halt if government is to survive the assaults of all the vicious elements which revolt against law and order. A government can survive only as long as wise laws are passed and all the laws are obeyed by all people."

"Mockery of our laws and one course of action is to stop the criticism of our people, must stop, and no other agency is better equipped to stop it than the press."

BOY, 6, SEALS LIPS ABOUT BEATINGS BY HIS PARENTS

(Pictures on back page).

Walter Novicki, 6 years old, sat in Domestic Relations court yesterday and calmly chewed gum while he listened to witness relate how he had been beaten by his father and stepmother, but when Judge Morgan tried to draw some statement from him he became pale and nervous and refused to talk.

A chauffeur said he found the child crawling about the street at 3 o'clock in the morning, a day or two before he was taken to the hospital. He said he gave him some cakes and half a pie, which he ate, and left him in a bakery.

Novicki denied he had ever beaten his son. On the occasion Walter was found crawling in the street, the father said he found the door of their home unlocked when he missed Walter at 3 a.m. and went to look for him, finding him in the bake shop. He said at that time there was no evidence of injury.

SEVEN MILLIONS TO CITY EXPERTS IN SEVEN YEARS

That's Official Estimate Made Public.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The staggering total of $7,249,524.31—officially admitted—has been paid by the William Hale Thompson administration to its sundry kinds of "experts" in the last seven years. This sensational aggregate of expert expenses is available today because official figures for 1921 were made public yesterday.

Some of the total is legitimate and necessary, but The Tribune's charges to the city controllers that other enormous payments were made in conformity with a conspiracy to cheat and defraud the city.

Let it be remembered that $7,249,524.31 is an official figure. It is not private calculation. It is the figure of the city controllers under the Thompson regime, officially reported to either the city council or the finance committee. It is an official admission, not a private estimate nor a partisan guess, but a summary of public records made by Thompson controllers. Indeed the Democratic candidates haven't a figure for experts of the sort that amount again under the name of Jean Estes

Girl Suspect in 'Burglar Maid' Mysteries Captured in Raid

Another "burglar maid," whose plots are suspected of rivaling those of Mrs. Etta Hell, who started Chicago a year and a half ago, was arrested last night. She is Miss Margaret Estes, 17, of two years. Two dead victims have disappeared for one person who has identified her. Other supposed victims will be asked to view her today.

Miss Estes was arrested and taken from the Lake Park Hotel, 519 South State street, under guard, who caused a report of a kidnaping to be sent to the police, and while one squad of detectives was investigating the kidnaping another was questioning the "victim."

Arrest is Spectacular.

The arrest was made by Detective Sergents Ernest Payne and Leonard Burch with an operative from the Pinkerton agency. The men entered the hotel room where Miss Estes was searching the clerk and William Estes, brother of the girl, for weapons, arrested Miss Estes. When they had taken her away the brother reported to the police that she had been kidnapped by a disappointed lover.

As soon as Miss Estes was taken to the station, James E. Morris, 915 Seminary avenue, and Mrs. Mary Meyers, 1741 West Adams street, were called in to view her. Several weeks ago Mrs. Harrison hired a maid who gave the name of Mary De Roze and who disappeared a few days later with clothing and jewelry valued at $5,000. Mrs. Harrison wasn't sure Miss Estes was the girl.

Six Toes on Each Foot.

Mrs. Meyers, however, was positive that she was the maid who worked at her home for three days several weeks ago under the name of Jean Estes first wife in 1896 or 1906. He gurgled unwillingly when Attorney Schwartz asked him to tell about the time he came home at 3 o'clock in the morning so drunk that his false teeth fell out. He denied his wife had cut his hand with a pair of scissars. That was the time he was brought to the police station. He protested that he did not receive the scar on his forehead when she slammed a door in his face but when he hurried an alarm clock at him.

'DOLL MOTHER' FREED ON TWIN MURDER CHARGE

Faints When Judge Stops Trial.

Finds Many Flaws.

The defense asked that the defendant be discharged for lack of the services of counsel, but the court ruled that the accused had not been established, inasmuch as it had not been proved that the alleged murders occurred in Lake County, and secondly that the necessary element of every murder case, the corpus delicti, had not been established.

"The state must prove," said the court, "that these babies lived, and it must prove that these babies are dead and that the circumstances lead to the belief that the defendant, to some degree at least, was responsible for their death."

The state may have showed beyond a reasonable doubt that the babies had lived. But the circumstantial evidence connecting the defendant with their deaths should be so strong as to exclude even the hypothesis of possible innocence. The state must produce certain and unequivocal proof that the defendant is dead, and that the probable cause of death, and in this case the state has not proved it. Therefore, I discharge the defendant."

Recalls Similar Case.

That Mrs. McFally figured in another strange baby case six years ago was disclosed yesterday by Mrs. Frank Flary of Round Lake, Ill. Mrs. Flary's story indicates that Mrs. McNally's tale is true, but that the coroner's inquest is dead set now that the bride's testimony. A week later, accompanied by her mother, she came to Chicago and sloped to Valparaiso without Mrs. Mitchell's knowledge. When Mrs. Mitchell found it out she began arraignment proceedings.

'SWORD IN HAND,' LLOYD GEORGE OPENS BATTLE

Bonar Law Hints at Early British Election.

BY JOHN STEELE.

Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1922. By The Chicago Tribune.]
LONDON, Oct. 20.—"The burden is of my shoulders but the sword is in my hands."

With these words David Lloyd George, who resigned yesterday as prime minister of Great Britain, left London today to open his fight for restoration as the real ruler of the British empire.

Crowd Hail Ousted Premier.

Remarkable scenes of enthusiasm marked the journey of Mr. Lloyd George to Leeds tonight. The stations en route were packed with his supporters, and the former premier was wildly cheered at every point at which the train stopped.

At Bedford, Leicester, Wellington, Kettering, and Sheffield Mr. Lloyd George spoke five minutes. Calling himself one of the "great army of unemployed," he appealed to the people to stand behind him in the fight for "national salvation" and "the party's gain." Numerous bouquets and gifts from local bodies gave Mr. Lloyd George's special car the appearance of a Christmas store window when it pulled into Leeds. The former prime minister was delighted with his reception en route.

"I have never witnessed such remarkable demonstrations in the whole of my fairly long career," he said.

Hints at Early Election.

Maneuver Andrew Bonar Law, who is the new prime minister, spent the day selecting timber for his cabinet. He issued the following statement this evening:

"For the moment I am a private citizen. I shall not go to the king before the Conservative meeting Monday. If I am elected leader of the Conservative party then I may be in a position to advise the king to order immediate dissolution of parliament.

This would give plenty of time to get the Irish home rule bill through."

Bonar Law's Task Difficult.

Long before his breakfast a stream of men and women, arriving today at Bonar Law's house in Grosvenor Gardens, All contained aspirants to office or advocates of aspirants.

The task of forming a cabinet, however, is not an easy one. With the exception of Lord Curzon, who it is said has been promised a dukedom, all the conservative leaders of the old school are attached to Mr. Lloyd George. These include Sir Austin Chamberlain, Lord Balfour, Sir Robert Home, Lord Birkenhead, Lord Lee of Fareham, and Sir Laming Worthington Evans.

Lord Derby was talked of for minister of foreign affairs; Lord Carson for post master-general; the secretary of state for the colonies, the Duke of Devonshire for lord president of the council, and Lord Peel for minister for India. The only brilliant man mentioned is Stanley Baldwin, who has first call on chancellor of the exchequer.

Peers Will Predominate.

It will be a cabinet in which peers will predominate and which will be composed largely in the existing powers in the house of commons where it will have to face a brilliant combination led by Mr. Lloyd George.

The politicians are speculating today about the date of the election. One theory is that Mr. Bonar Law will decide to take it immediately in order to secure advantage of the high tide of Conservative feeling in the country and to prevent the development of plans by Maura, Lloyd George and Chamberlain for a new center party.

If dissolution is proclaimed next week, the election could be over by Nov. 13. The danger of this, of course, is that the Irish treaty will not be ratified by Dec. 6 unless it is ratified before then and there is a certain risk with a new Tory house through delay or even default.

I am assured that the change in the government will make no difference in England's foreign policy. The repayment of the debt to America will be continued according to plan, and already worked out. Lord Curzon will have charge of the British interests at the near east conference, which it is agreed will be held on Nov. 13 at Lausanne.

Causes German Finance Crash.

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—The panic created in Berlin's political and financial circles by Mr. Lloyd George's resignation was clearly illustrated on the exchange, where the mark dropped 100 points to the dollar hourly, reaching $1.00 late this afternoon. Mr. Lloyd George's resignation is considered a blow to Germany's hopes for readjustment of the reparations problem.

Hugo Stinnes, who is a friend of Andrew Bonar Law, who was the former prime minister, spent the day selecting timber for his cabinet. He issued the following statement this evening:

"For the moment I am a private citizen. I shall not go to the king before the Conservative meeting Monday. If I am elected leader of the Conservative party then I may be in a position to advise the king to order immediate dissolution of parliament.

This would give plenty of time to get the Irish home rule bill through."

Bonar Law's Task Difficult.

Long before his breakfast a stream of men and women, arriving today at Bonar Law's house in Grosvenor Gardens, All contained aspirants to office or advocates of aspirants.

The task of forming a cabinet, however, is not an easy one. With the exception of Lord Curzon, who it is said has been promised a dukedom, all the conservative leaders of the old school are attached to Mr. Lloyd George. These include Sir Austin Chamberlain, Lord Balfour, Sir Robert Home, Lord Birkenhead, Lord Lee of Fareham, and Sir Laming Worthington Evans.

Lord Derby was talked of for minister of foreign affairs; Lord Carson for post master-general; the secretary of state for the colonies, the Duke of Devonshire for lord president of the council, and Lord Peel for minister for India. The only brilliant man mentioned is Stanley Baldwin, who has first call on chancellor of the exchequer.

Peers Will Predominate.

It will be a cabinet in which peers will predominate and which will be composed largely in the existing powers in the house of commons where it will have to face a brilliant combination led by Mr. Lloyd George.

The politicians are speculating today about the date of the election. One theory is that Mr. Bonar Law will decide to take it immediately in order to secure advantage of the high tide of Conservative feeling in the country and to prevent the development of plans by Maura, Lloyd George and Chamberlain for a new center party.

If dissolution is proclaimed next week, the election could be over by Nov. 13. The danger of this, of course, is that the Irish treaty will not be ratified by Dec. 6 unless it is ratified before then and there is a certain risk with a new Tory house through delay or even default.

I am assured that the change in the government will make no difference in England's foreign policy. The repayment of the debt to America will be continued according to plan, and already worked out. Lord Curzon will have charge of the British interests at the near east conference, which it is agreed will be held on Nov. 13 at Lausanne.

CLYNE DEMANDS THOROUGH AIRING OF EVERY CHARGE

U.S. Report Urges Clean-up of His Office.

case for a conference with Mr. Tolman and Mr. Montgomery.

Memoranda by Hinton G. Clabaugh, chief investigator for the special assistants of the attorney general, are submitted carrying detailed findings from the files of Mr. Clabaugh and of some records that disappeared mysteriously after he began his work in the federal building.

The only specific case of "influence" discussed in the report is that in which Special Assistant United States Attorney Le Bowley appears as attorney for the man from whom the Great Northern had its $1,000,000 contract. In this case a letter from Attorney Patrick H. O'Donnell is included.

FINDINGS OF INVESTIGATORS

The findings and conclusions of Mr. Tolman and Mr. Montgomery follow:

"1. The charges implied in the Clinian petition are not specifically directed by name against any individual. Viewed as a statement of general conditions, they find no fault to be imputed."

"2. That finding is not to be understood as dealing at all with the question of personal responsibility for the conditions disclosed by the examination and report. We have concluded that we ought not to express any opinion on that subject for the following reasons:

"First.—The investigation would necessarily be greatly extended before a final judgment on that subject could be safely formed.

"Second.—Even if we reached a conclusion on the subject of individual responsibility, we might be mistaken and the publication of our views might do more harm than good.

"Third.—There is a method of procedure for the determination of such questions and it is stated in our recommendations.

Their Recommendations.

"There is no remedy for lawlessness at all comparable to a prompt and energetic prosecution of those who are accused of crime. We therefore recommend:

"1. That there be appointed a special prosecutor of recognized ability and independence who would present to trial promptly certain of the pending cases, and who would be wholly independent. These regular court proceedings would, we believe, bring out the facts much more fully and accurately than any grand jury investigation or hearing in open court based on the Clinian petition. If this course were adopted and such prosecutor were given full power and full support, we believe it would settle, in large measure, the question of personal responsibility.

"2. We approve the recommendation of the examiners for a thorough reorganization of the office and their suggestions as to the adoption of more efficient and complete methods of the presentation of evidence and the keeping of records and files.

"3. We recommend that the United States attorney be held responsible for the selection of his assistants and for their subsequent official conduct.

All-in "Political Control."

"4. There can be no real enforcement of the laws of the United States unless the office of the United States attorney be entirely freed from the possibility of political control. This principle has been universally accepted in regard to judicial appointments, but is equally true of the office of the United States attorney as is at least equally important. He is the only person directly charged with the prosecution of offenders.

"Unless he marshals and presents the evidence the judge cannot act. If he is under obligation to any political faction or leader, those who are in rebellion against law will find some way to secure immunity from punishment.

Have Eyes on New Men.

"Every law of the United States could be enforced today if politics could be divorced from law enforcement. These observations are, we believe, $100,000 to you, and our justification for incorporating them into this report is the fact that as the head of the department of Justice and adviser to the President in appointments to that department you now have under consideration the matter of the appointment of a successor to the present United States attorney on the expiration of his term.

"May we not suggest that you convey these considerations to the President as of special importance in the present circumstances?"

On the subject of "No Bills" the report finds this condition for the

PLANS FOR THE NEW ZOOLOGICAL GARDEN IN FOREST PRESERVE

First work upon the new zoo which is to be constructed in the forest preserve at the junction of the Des Plaines river and Salt creek will start Oct. 27. The zoo is to be built so the animals may be seen amidst their natural surroundings instead of in cages. The dark spots indicate concrete construction which will resemble rocks. ried from July 1, 1912, to June 30, 1922:

No Bills 675
True Bills 1,673

Presented but dismissed and not finally passed upon 26

The "no bills" are 34 per cent of the total number, more than double the percentage in average districts.

On nolle prossed cases the report finds that during this period out of a total of 3,758 cases only 53 per cent had been disposed of. A number of 35 per cent of the convictions were in contested cases where the defendants acknowledged guilt and made no defense. Of the cases in which there was a contest there were only eighty-four verdicts of guilty in four years. The report states:

"It has been impossible to put ourselves in the position of the prosecutors in each one of these cases, and we must assume that in such cases there is no reason to believe that the office is subject to criticism other than for delay."

Cases Kept from Jury.

On the question of violations not presented to the grand jury a total of 784 cases for the last three years. Of these 560 were prohibition cases.

The report also shows that during the fiscal year 1921, in which the 784 cases were presented to the grand jury after a hearing before United States commissioners, were not followed up or further prosecuted.

"Influence of Lawyers.

"In regard to the exploitation of alleged influence by lawyers, the statements of the Clinian petition are vague. The evidence before us on this point is not complete but we believe it sufficient to indicate that some members of the bar are justly subject to censure. We recommend that certain cases, which we will designate, be referred to the appropriate committee for determining whether there has been complicity in such transactions on the part of any one connected with the United States attorney's office."

The investigators report that they looked into the question of proceedings against Mrs. J. Schuyler and Charles Weinfeld for alleged fraudulence in their claim that they were approved yesterday at a meeting of the trustees of the Chicago Zoological society and the oblogical committee of the forest preserve board.

JIMMY SMITH'S MOTHER GETS HER BOND MONEY BACK

Chief Justice McKinley yesterday returned the money paid to him by Mrs. Susan Smith, mother of "Jimmy" Smith, $500, she had paid to Lazarus Finegan for her son's bond, and which the bondsman returned to the court when threatened with grand jury action.

J. C. Kelly, business agent of the Butchers' union, which loaned Mrs. Smith the money, appeared in court yesterday and said he had given the sum a donation. Smith is held for the murder of Frank O'Connell, whom he killed in an attempt to get an additional $500 to satisfy his bondsman's demands.

346 Cases Dismissed.

In those cases where both commissioners and grand juries were satisfied that the defendant had violated the law, 346 cases were dismissed. These figures must be added together for a full conception of their significance. This makes a total of 2,196 cases in which there was a failure to indict. Where competent authority had found no evidence of an offense against the law, this does not include hundreds of complaints from departmental and bureau chiefs."

Chicago ranks thirty-ninth in cities for the number of prohibition cases commenced, thirty-nine in closed, sixty-four in the number of prohibition cases closed, and forty-fifth in the number of convictions secured.

Traffic in Booze.

As to illicit traffic in alcoholic beverages the report states:

"There is not the slightest doubt that ever since the passage of the eighteenth amendment and its intent to earn the same effect there has been traffic in intoxicating liquors, organized on a large scale and protected by bribery and corruption. The reports and records of the prohibition enforcement offices made public from time to time, have made known the affairs which are publicly known.

The Stand on Booze.

It has been no part of our duty to duplicate the work done by governmental agencies in the investigation of this general subject.

THREE TRAFFIC SIGNAL TOWERS ORDERED BUILT

Immediate action on one of the many recent proposals for relief of Michigan avenue traffic congestion was ordered yesterday by the south park board.

Commissioners announced the opening of bids for construction of three traffic control towers, donated to the boulevard by the Yellow Cab company, and designed to control the automatic traffic system will be tried out as soon as the towers can be built.

Until the city council puts into effect the proposed one-way street regulation, recommended by Chief Fitzmorris and traffic experts, the board decided to defer action on the plan of opening "express" and local lines of traffic on Michigan avenue from the link bridge to Roosevelt road.

Members pointed out that the plan would be too complicated for practical success until a definite, one-way routine can be applied to streets entering the boulevard from the loop.

The new traffic towers, each to control one important corner of Michigan avenue, will be erected at its intersection with Jackson boulevard, 16th street, and 22d street.

BUNDESEN HEARS NEW CHARGE OF HOSPITAL GRAFT

City ambulances in need of repair are allowed to remain in service repainted at the garage of the municipal contagious disease hospital worked on privately owned cars, according to a new series of affidavits laid before Health Commissioner Bundesen yesterday by investigators for the council finance committee efficiency staff.

Dr. Bundesen issued an order putting Dr. Archibald E. Hoyne, former city's Attorney Macay Hoyne, in charge of the hospital. He takes the place of Dr. Arthur E. Gamgee, suspended by the health commissioner Thursday in connection with the charges of graft, padded pay rolls, and illegal sale of city property at the hospital.

Dr. Hoyne has been in charge of the hospital since 1915, and for years has been head of the contagious disease staff of the county hospital.

According to one new affidavit obtained yesterday, Herbert A. Linder, an ambulance attendant at the hospital under the Gammage régime, was seen to fill the gasoline tank of his own car "at least fifteen times" out of the hours of 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Henry Derby, head chauffeur at the hospital, made a business of repairing "outside cars" for pay while accepting money from the city for keeping its cars in order, according to other affidavits. The names of the owners of the "outside cars" are given in the affidavits.

IN DEFENSE OF THE AMERICAN HERITAGE.

The address of former Senator Beveridge at the Union League club should remind us, and we will especially remind the voters of Indiana, that such expositions and defense of our constitutional system as Mr. Beveridge is exceptionally fitted to give is going to be needed during the next few years. There is a determined effort to break down or break into our system, and so far as our conditions may be depressed through the effects imposed upon us by war and so far as discontent may be of a considerable spread, this effort or efforts may be serious. We do not exaggerate the possibilities of the attacks of Senator La Follette, of organized labor leaders against constitutional principles, but it is certain that, if criticism is prevalent and negligently answered, if it is ignored, the time will come when a fatal blow can be delivered. Even more probable—in fact, we have it—is the process of gradual encroachment being content with the channel islands held by the British king as the Duke of Normandy. He also should have Normandy and then reassert the Plantagenet claim to the throne of France. Scots, Saxons and Danes might inquire of Romans how validly they claimed England which they could not have.

There are enthusiastic Italians who believe that new Italy should be guided by an idea of the restoration of the Augustan empire. Probably they would not be so meticulous in boundary as to ask for England up to the line of Hadrian's wall, but why stop short of it we do not know.

The British crown has no historic justification for being content with the channel islands held by the British king as the Duke of Normandy. He also should have Normandy and then reassert the Plantagenet claim to the throne of France. Scots, Saxons and Danes might inquire of Romans how validly they claimed England which they could not have.

We cannot afford to let defense of the constitution rest upon its results, belligerent as they have been. We see today that our people consists largely of two classes—the Americans who take their legacy of ordered liberty for granted, who have paid nothing for its gifts and are only dimly conscious of what it means to American wellbeing, and a numerous class of newcomers who know nothing of American experience and its fruitage of political institutions and bring with them many theories and prejudices which are inconsistent with our principles of progress.

To awaken the former and instruct the latter is one of the chief duties of American statesmanship at this moment, and we must note that there are very few of our leaders who are showing any perception of this public need. On the contrary, for more than half a century American thought has been infiltrated with economic, social, and political ideas imported from Europe. About the only polemics we have is that of radicalism, and we find our intellectual classes widely if not deeply infected with all shades of protest.

Against this tendency we think it is high time there should be clear and vigorous resistance. Confirmed as we may be in allegiance to our American principles of ordered liberty and to the institutions which have given them such wonderful expression throughout our national history, we cannot afford to allow subversion to go unchallenged on the theory that they will defend themselves. Sophistry and plausible argument allying themselves with inevitable discontents can accomplish injuries which we were foolish not to avoid if we can.

We think, therefore, that the reentry into public life of so well grounded and effective an exponent of American principles, especially constitutional principle, as Mr. Beveridge is to be especially welcomed, and we hope the people of Indiana will not fail to send him into the forum where his services are more than ever needed. The truth is that the senate, which in the past has been the arena of all the great battles of our political history, is lacking in forensic ability. There is more of other forms of ability than critics admit, but the senate and the nation need the unquestioned gifts of Mr. Beveridge as orator, debater, and champion of American constitutionalism.

We are inclined to believe all true Americans may welcome attacks upon the constitution which can be got into the open, such as Senator La Follette's proposal for depriving the Supreme court of its essential function of vetoing legislation incompatible with our fundamental law. For if these attacks are challenged the result will be such an illumination of American principles as will revive faith which has gone to sleep and wake in the rising generation a devotion founded on knowledge and reasoned judgment.

This work lies to our hand, for leaders in public life, for the press, for the schools. The nation needs a rededication to the doctrines and the institutions which have presided over its unprecedented progress and wellbeing.

ONE DAY OFF A WEEK FOR POLICEMEN.

The Patrolmen's Benevolent, Social and Athletic club, the organization of Chicago's policemen, is preparing to ask the council for a rule granting one day off each week to every member of the department. At present they are allowed one day off every two weeks, fourteen days' furlough, fourteen days' sick leave, and additional time in special emergencies.

Chief Flaxmoor says this total amounts to more than one day a week throughout the year. He insists that a day off every week would in effect reduce the size of the force. So he will oppose it.

We are inclined to side with the policemen. We sympathize with the chief's desire to keep the force at top notch, both as to numbers and efficiency, but we believe a man with two days' rest in two weeks can accomplish more in his twelve working days than a man with one day's rest in two weeks can accomplish in his thirteen working days.

That may be discounted as merely personal opinion, but it is founded upon long experience of large employers of labor. Even more important, however, is the question of justice. Chicago policemen daily see taxpayers' money thrown lavishly to persons whose chief value is to the political machine which hires them rather than to the city. It is logical for the policemen then to ask why the city which pays such sums to such men cannot afford to pay a substitute for every policeman one additional day in fourteen.

When we see policemen leading on easy special assignments we are moved to wonder why some of these men, if assigned to regular duty, could not fill the places which would be vacant while regular policemen took a day off once a week. In any event, one day off a week is none too much for a hard working policeman, and there should be no others on the force.

THE ILLUSION OF GRANDEUR.

"When they get to talking of Greeks and Rome," said Mr. Dooley, "I take me hat and goes home." That is a safe place for a peaceable citizen, but Europeans seem unable to escape from the historic justification of land seizure.

Just now it is part of the contention over eastern Thrace. The Greeks demanded it as the cradle of Greek civilization and as a part of the Byzantine empire; the Turks because of its identity with the Moslem religion; the Bulgars because of association with some iron hatted, two fisted swordsmen.

It is just as safe to start an argument over historic justification in central, eastern or southeastern Europe as it is to enter a polar bear pit with a piece of seal meat and just as intelligent as it would be to start an economic argument in Bedlam.

The historic justification is the most mischievous nationalistic emotionalism known to hysteria. It has the limitless boundaries of insanity. If any one can persuade a Frenchman and a German to agree as to the period at which historic justification starts in Alsace and as to which rape was the unjustifiable rape he will be in position to plunge deeper into the madness from which he never will emerge.

There are enthusiastic Italians who believe that new Italy should be guided by an idea of the restoration of the Augustan empire. Probably they would not be so meticulous in boundary as to ask for England up to the line of Hadrian's wall, but why stop short of it we do not know.

The British crown has no historic justification for being content with the channel islands held by the British king as the Duke of Normandy. He also should have Normandy and then reassert the Plantagenet claim to the throne of France. Scots, Saxons and Danes might inquire of Romans how validly they claimed England which they could not have.

The Scandinavians could assert the validity of the Gothic kingdom of Italy and the Saracens could ask Alfonso for the return of Spain. So also could the Neanderthal ask modern man for the return of continents.

The Swedes could put in a claim for New Jersey, the Dutch for New York, and the French for portions of Illinois. Some remnant of the Aegean civilization might ask the Greeks to recognize his territory and return to be skin clad shepherds in the Danubian country, and if there were an Etruscan he might deny the title of the Roman in Italy.

It might do the human race some good to go back to the azoic age for a fresh start, but short of that we cannot see where historic justification can find a fitting terminus.

Americans do not bother about the historic justification and consequently they do not know what grandiloquent emotions sweep over some debating clubs and gatherings of armed citizenry in parts of Europe. Americans know that there were tribes and nations of active Iroquois, Cherokees, Creeks, Shawnees, Hurons, Miami, Winnebagos, Sioux, Comanches, Apaches and other tribes of the rivers and lakes, forest, prairie, plains, desert and mountain, and that the man who wanted to hunt over the soil disappeared before the man who wanted to till it and build factories for the use of its resources.

The American national background is that of virtual obliteration of a race. There is hot, as we can recall, another instance in the numerous movements of humanity in which one color so completely disappeared before another over a great tract of the earth in so short a time.

Indians exist here, and, numerously, but with relation to the civilization which supplanted the mode of life and hardy with any relation to their own. Africa retained its blacks. Asia retained its yellows.

The American sense of the past is skin deep. It does not go back to gunpowder, and when other folk get ideas derived from the short sword and spear we take our hat and go home, as sensible, peaceful citizens should do.

If Europe wants to fight over again the wars of Parthian riders and Roman legions from the Danube, of blond bearded Scandinavians and disciplined barbarians under the Christian emblems of Byzantium, of Norman raider and English longbowman, it may go fight, but it will only be the wind whistling about the American chimney, weep.

COL. CLINNIN VINDICATED.

The report of two special assistant attorneys general upon the charges made by Col. John V. Clininn as to local enforcement or non-enforcement of the federal law has resulted in a decisive vindication of Col. Clininn and a recommendation for a thorough investigation.

Col. Clininn's charges did not fix upon individuals or purport to establish responsibility, but they were undoubtedly a conscientious effort to perform a public duty and the indorsement of his course of action is gratifying as an act of justice to a faithful public servant.

PLUMPING GOES INTO DISCARD IN NEW ORGANIC LAW

Minority Assembly Plan
Outlives Usefulness.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

ARTICLE NO. 4.
Minority representation, which long has been regarded as the vermin of the Illinois constitution, is now sliced off by the proposed new instrument which goes to a vote Dec.
11. Years ago it became an atrophied organ. The criticism has been that through the devices of politicians voters in many districts are robbed of the right of choice at the polls and the system of "plumping" votes has turned many a district into a "pocket borough."

Under the scheme which Illinois allowed for half a century three representatives are elected in each of the fifty-one senatorial districts. Each voter may cast three votes. He may give one vote to each of three candidates, or he may split his three votes between two candidates, or he may plump all three votes for one candidate. The theory was that the "plumping" would enable the minority party in the district to elect one member.

Select to Destroy Sectionalism.

It was put into the constitution to destroy sectionalism and it worked well. After the civil war Illinois was split apart. The southern part of the state was dyed-in-the-wool Democrat; the northern part was rampantly Republican. Sectionalism was bitter between the two halves of the state and Illinois was torn into two hostile sections.

The population was so distributed that less than a fourth of the voters elected a majority of both houses.

With a view of curing this the convention of 1870 hit upon cumulative voting and proportional representation. In those days proportional representation was the pure quill in advanced political ideas. As chief advocate it had John Stuart Mill, one of the world's greatest writers on political and social science. In the convention of 1870 Joseph Medill was its sponsor and champion. In both America and Europe the action of Illinois was heralded
as the dawn of a new day.

Brings State Together.

The system served its purpose well.
It brought the state together and ended the split. But years ago it became a plaything for the politicians. The chief attack on this unique feature of the Illinois basic law—no other state has it—has been that the politicians so manipulate it that the voter is deprived of the right of selection.

The major parties together have been putting up in Illinois more candidates than seats available. There are seats in many districts as there are seats in a Republican district two Republicans and one Democrat would be put on the ballot. In a Democratic district two Democrats and one Republican. Three offices to be filled; only three candidates on the ticket. So the voter in these districts has practically been diminished—he has lost his seat.

In 1918 only three candidates were put up by the two leading parties in fourteen of the nineteen districts in Cook county. With fifty-seven house members to be elected in the county, only sixty-two candidates were nominated by the Republican and Democratic parties.

And in 1920 four districts in the state each elected three Republicans—the minority did not have a look in.

Approximately one-third of the house members are minority representatives, and among them there is valence and grasping of teeth. The complaint has been that by tying districts into "pocket boroughs" many a member has kent in his seat ed States minister to China, who when, if the voters had any power of selection, they would have put him on the skids.

Some Strong Minority Men.

As a compensating feature, some of the strongest members of the house are minority members. For instance, David E. Shanahan, former speaker, who served fourteen terms, and
E. J. Smejkal, who served in the minority representation they would have less than a Chinaman's chance, unless they moved into Republican territory.

The proposed new constitution wipes out cumulative voting, and instead uses single member districts, apportioned according to sectors. From each district one member of the house is to be elected. The voters will at least have a choice and will get back their right of suffrage, but whether it will yield a house of better character appears conjectural, without the city council of Chicago, in the election in which the voters had the same sort of choice, but which had little or nothing on the legislature for brains or ability.

SOX AND GIANTS TO RENEW SERIES OF SPRING GAMES

BY FRANK SCHREIBER.
That the White Sox will continue their program of playing a series of exhibition games with the New York Giants was practically assured yesterday. Officials of the two clubs have been in communication regarding spring plans, despite the fact that the regular season has just closed, and that it will be some time before the ball toppers resume work.

KID GLEASON. The Sox will kid Gleason, who is in Spring camp, while the Giants may shift their spring quarters from San Antonio, Tex., to California. But the change will have little bearing on the series, for the games last season proved a big success both as money makers and in getting the players in shape. Last spring the teams played in several towns in the country and wound up with a series in New York.

Cubs to Catalina.

The Cubs will train at their regular camp on Catalina Island. The camp was laid out at a big cost by Owner William Wrigley Jr. and is rated as one of the best places for ball club training in the country. The weather is warm and atmospheric conditions ideal.

Nothing in the line of trades or purchases of ball players has been done by the Cubs as yet. Although President E. S. Doetsch of the Robins and Dryfuss of the Pirates are still in the city, they have done no dealing with President Veeck and Manager Killefer of the bears.

Sox Page Eight.

Manager Gleason of the Sox has recalled a number of players from the minors to report next spring. Among them are Pudie Schupp and Harry Conroy, pitchers; Schupp went to Seattle, while Conroy went to San Francisco as part payment for Third Baseman Willie Kann.

Among the other Sox players recalled are:

Ronald Barber, Rockford, Ill.; George Cooney, Toronto; E. L. Ostberg, Sioux City; J. D. Thompson, Greenville, S. C.; E. Taylor, Albany, N. Y., and E. Rafferty, Buffalo.

STAR HORSES IN STAKE RACE AT LATONIA TODAY

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—One of the turf's principal classics will be decided here tomorrow afternoon, when the fourth running of the Latonia championship stakes will be run. With a $10,000 in added money, the race will be won approximately $15,000 and some of the leading 3 year olds of the season will go to the post.

Among the eight horses that have been entered chief interest centers in the meeting of E. F. Simms' Lucky Hour and Harry Payne's Whitney's Building. The horses have met twice this year and each won once.

The race will be a mile and three-quarters, with the horses carrying scale weights of 124 pounds, except for Starlite, 123. Besides these three, Cherry Tree, Chatterton, Rockminster, Sun Rider, and Yoshimi are entered. Rockminster and Sun Rider will run in the second and third entries. Rockminster no doubt will receive good support because of the victory he scored over Whiskaway at Saratoga.

CHICAGO BEARS SET FOR BATTLE WITH BUFFALO

Chicago's Bears are not fearing the running of Anderson and Scott, the Colgate and Lafayette half backs, scheduled for the Ashland boulevard stadium to Lake Forest tomorrow in their game with the Buffalo All Americans at the Coliseum. If they can keep Urban, the Boston college end, from breaking away with passes as he did when he beat Yale a few years ago, the Bears believe they can hold the rest of the visiting eleven.

Everything is set for the battle. The two lines of the two teams are a mound, and the batter's box has been sodded, and there now is grass on the entire gridiron.

The new scoreboard, with clock and other improvements, has been installed and the most casual follower of the sport can now tell exactly what is going on by means of this arrangement.

The kickoff tomorrow is scheduled for 2:15. Tickets for the game are on sale today at the Thomas E. Wilson company store at Wabash and Monroe streets.

CARDS FACE HARD GO WITH MARINES

Rooters who flock to Comiskey park tomorrow for the big gridiron battle between Paulsen's unbeaten Chicago Cardinals and the home team, the Minneapolis Marines are assured of a hard royal, according to word received last night from the Gopher camp. Although the Marines are past masters in the execution of the forward pass, they also will combine this attack with the use of bewildering shifts made famous by teams like the Maroon and Gold of Minnesota.

Among the stars on the visiting team are Joe Mattern and Paul Flinn, Minneap.; Paul (Shorty) De Jardien, former Maroon captain and All-American center; Harry Mehre of Notre Dame, Eddie Novak, and Swede Erickson.

Tickets for the game, which will start at 2:35, are on sale at Spalding's and at Comiskey park.

THREE LEFT IN CHECKER MEET

Boston, Mass., Oct. 20.—Three players remained tonight in competition for the title in the fifth American checkers tournament. They are Alvin Jordan of New York, former English champion; Emanuel Ginsberg of Brooklyn and Al Long of Toledo, O. Jordan and Long will meet tomorrow morning and the winner will take on Ginsberg for the final round in the afternoon.

Ginsberg defeated Long today in a seven-hour contest, winning one game, while five were drawn.

GASOLINE ALLEY—DON'T GET RECKLESS, AVERY

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

FOOTBALL TODAY.

INTERSECTIONAL football today is confined to Centre's appearance in the Harvard stadium, where Crimson colors were lowered by the Centre has lost Bo McMinn and has lost whatever easy confidence it once had, after two years' experience with Centre, so we are inclined to favor the easterners, although Centre, like Iowa, may prove that places of graduated stars have been attained by other lunatics.

Outwardly, Centre's Michigan's decline of Ohio State's new stadium is the outstanding feature. Wolverines and Buckeyes in recent years have staged desperate contests. Michigan disappointed against Vanderbilt. Hope of a Wolverine title eleven will be held if Ohio opens its new field with victory.

On local gridirons Chicago meets Purdue—it seems almost iconoclastic not to have heard the customary "Stagg runs Purdue"—and Minnesota beats the Purple to take the North Western. After seeing the Purple against Beloit and its improvement against Chicago, supplemented by an admirable spirit, we would have given Northwestern an even chance or better than the Northmen, but injuries to Beloit and the others do not help.

With Capt. Paterson and McElwain out, and others pretty well bunged up, Northwestern is handicapped, especially in available backfield substitutes.

The Lake Mystery

BY MARVIN DANA

SYNOPSIS. Herse Abernethy, a miserly miser, willed his musical library unreservedly to Saxe, a young musician and the son of the woman he had loved in his youth, and left three hundred thousand dollars in gold, contained in six boxes, finding within the walls of Abernethy's death, the chest in which the old man had secreted it. The rest of his property, including his house in Maine and the grounds surrounding it, he had left to a young cousin, Margaret West. If Saxe failed to locate the gold within a specified time, it was a division by his lawyer, half to go to Margaret West and the other half to be used as a foundation for a home for disabled musicians.

Saxe is determined to find the money in order that he may devote all his time to the composition of operas, so he enlists the aid of his three indomitable friends, Billy Walker, Bert Morton, and David Thorne, who agree to accompany him to the old miser's home in Maine and there conduct a systematic search for the treasure.

Mary Thurston, the pretty young secretary of Abernethy, had been asked by the lawyer to remain in the house after the miser's death. She is enroute to Hartley Masters, an engineer employed in the neighborhood. He is an unscrupulous fellow, and when May tells him of the strange will he makes up his mind to beat the rightful heir to the treasure, if he can. May tries unwillingly to get him to give up the search.

When the four men arrive at the old man's home, Margaret West and her mother are already established there. The two women receive the gold hunters graciously.

Saxe and his friends, with Margaret West and May Thurston helping whenever and however they can, ransack the house and grounds for traces of the gold or clues to its hidden place.

INSTALLMENT XII.

A CLEW.

Roy had been sitting for some time with his back to the one window in the room, while the other two had been facing it. There had come no sound from without. Now, instinctively obedient to the command, Saxe darted to the window, which was open, and thrust out his head. Close to the wall of the cottage, within a yard of him, stood Hartley Masters in an attitude of absorbed attention.

Without attracting the notice of the eavesdropper, Saxe drew back, and turned to his friends. His nodded affirmation of Roy's surmise, in the gaze with which he scrutinized the amateur psychic, there was a curious mingling of bewilderment, respect, and chagrin.

David threw back his head, and laughed joyously, scorning the listener, and spoke his mind:

"When Roy gets a hunch—watch out!"

Masters, who was not induced to let the value of a small weekly stipend stand between him and the possession of riches, had now abandoned even the

Pungent Tang to Program of Orchestra

Mr. Stock's Concert Wins Critic's Praise

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mr. Stock evidently planned to make the first part of yesterday's concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra in accordance with what is usually considered the higher aspects of music and then, by way of relief, the second part in lighter vein. He therefore renewed the myth that the overture to Berlioz' "Benvenuto Cellini" is one of the world's masterpieces and followed his argument with Brahms' First Symphony.

The Berlioz theory needs a lot of proving, to one pair of ears at least, before it can be accepted without reserve, but I know of few advocates so persistent as Mr. Stock and his great orchestra. Their blood in the band is making it more porous than ever. In practically every section of players this year there is a pungent tang to the performance that has not been there to anything near the same degree for a number of years, and as this has come without any loss of tone quality or accuracy, it is an unfailing and instant effect upon the programs. It almost convinces one of the overture and it glorified the symphony.

But after seventeen minutes of overture and forty-nine of symphony, sedate seriousness had done its part and the second part took up a new point of view. Accordingly, the orchestra obliged with Reinhold Moritzowitch Glier's mimetic return of those odious features, pianissimo. I repeat to say, "on the testimony of Mr. Pecksniff, 'The Sirens.' It was a great performance, one in which the music became so much the more important part that the supposed story was more or less of a disturbing influence.

To make the last number a still more joyous occasion, Mr. Stock took up Kirill Kondrati's "Carnival" "no-nos" and made in the sprightly spirit of the dance and light hearted song. The program will be repeated tonight. Even without the added attraction of a soloist, it is commanded to your attention.

Ex-Kaiser in Gay Mood as He Signs Betrothal Notice

DOOR, Oct. 20.—[By the Associated Press.]—The civil betrothal ceremony of former Emperor William II and his bride-to-be took place this morning in the drawing room of the ex-monarch's castle here. The former ruler was in a gay humor as he, signing the document, wrote: "William II." The bride did not appear, but sent a power of attorney.

CARLOTTA.—It might be honest, all right, but why go out of your way to hurt somebody when it is neither necessary nor expected? Raimon Novarro played Rupert of Hentzau in "The Prisoner of Zenda." No trouble at all.

J. J. Richard Barthelmess is the husband of Mary Boy. He is 25 years old. "The Bonny Boy" is his latest release.

ASHTON M.: Yes, Rockcliffe Fellowes and Roy Stewart do look something alike. They are not, however, brothers. That is, if they are they have carefully concealed the fact from me. I am a simpleton and a dressed envelope, please, for the list of studio addresses. No—haven't any pictures to give away. None to sell. (None to lend.) Sorry.

NEW ENGLAND: You win. "Down to the Sea in Ships" WAS taken in and about New Bedford. Elmer Clifton was the director. You MIGHT write me a nice letter, don't you think? Or are you always like that?

JUST FAN: Dorothy Phillips, not Dorothy Dalton, is the wife of Allan Holubar. Miss Dalton was once married to Lew Cody. No'mo!

R. V. G.: If it makes you any happier go to a Paddy's Day, though. I don't believe they pay much attention to your letter. Thirty cents, I am told. Never wrote for one, so can't say for certain. Why no, what is there to be discouraged about? Have you seen "The Prisoner of Zenda"? That ought to answer several of your questions.

INDIANA: George Ade wrote "Our Leading Citizen," Thomas Meighan appeared in it. You like him? So do I.

M. R.: I DO NOT care to receive any more such letters from you.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In the sports section yesterday it was stated that the University of Minnesota football team had not been seen on the Northwestern university gridiron for five years. This was incorrect. Minnesota played at Evanston in 1920. The Purple winning by a score of 17 to 6.

Theodore Roberts has a goat. He

I'll say Constance Talmadge is one of the busiest little things we know. We let her go over to Europe for education and out she comes. She doesn't go and won't make a mascot of her! In other words, she's acting as mascot for the American team at the international pistol tournament being held in Milan, Italy. Let's hope no hopeless admirer bit at him. So great was his emotion under these confederate causes that for once he forgot discretion and passed with hasty steps around the boothouse, totally heedless of the distraught expression on his usually debonair countenance.

Forced thus by his own error to postpone the anticipated investigation, Masters was in no mood as he made his entry into the boathouse, with the intent of visiting his spot as the girl who loved him. But even this relief was not to be vouchsafed him yet. On the contrary, his displeasure was swiftly to become wrath, venomous by alarm. For as he drew near the boathouse he heard a chorus of merry voices. Instantly he realized that the other men were here, where he had expected to find only May and possibly Miss West. Fury mounted high at the thought. A fierce, unreasoning jealousy bit at him. So great was his emotion under these confederate causes that for once he forgot discretion and passed with hasty steps around the boothouse, totally heedless of the distraught expression on his usually debonair countenance.

As the engineer rounded the corner a scowl bent his brows at sight of the scene before him. The summer morn was of bland sun and gentle air to set the carefree in a mood for lazy delights. The group of four, it was plain, had yielded to the soft seduction of the hour, for their faces were radiant. Roy Morton was sitting in a boyish attitude on the top of a scrubbing post; one of whom his long legs were twined for security's sake, while May Thurston cuddled at his feet, her face upturned, eyes bright and smiling. The spectators, infatuated Masters, and new find to the flame, as his eyes fell on the other two. These others, the newsmen, who approached immediately behind them, Margaret sat at the edge of the dock, leaning against a post, in a posture of perfect content peculiarly expressive to the observer. A little to the right, and so placed as to face the girl, Saxe sat, with his feet folded under him like a Turk. Masters noted, in this giddy moment, that his rival was an especially good looking young man, of the shaven, clean cut type most esteemed by the contemporary illustrator.

The engineer appreciated the type which he himself was the exemplar, and appreciated it, indeed, as well worth, but having a fair degree of interest in it, he could not help admiring also the vigorous, wholesome, and cultured mind of the kind there before him. Though he had not the least fear for his own prowess where the hearts of women were concerned, he could not disprove from himself the fact that here was one who might easily prove a dangerous rival, were the opportunity given.

Saxe had just done with explaining to Miss West the reason for the new era of idleness, which the day had inaugurated for him and his two companions. With Billy Walker the era was duly discontinued.

It must be confessed that Saxe cast a long and scrutinizing glance toward Roy before claiming his rival, and that he held his voice lowered throughout the telling. He knew that this confidence to the girl, whom to a certain extent at least, the others distrusted, might be deemed by them the height of folly. But he was most respecting their opinions in aught that concerned her and him. So he told her truly of the decision to abandon systematic search in favor of a reconquered dependence upon occult inspiration.

Margaret's interest in the narrative was of the silent sort, and it delighted her. Her manner of receiving the information was proof enough to his mind that she harbored no least desire for him in this undertaking. His heart was in a glow of happiness, as she bent a little toward him, her face all aglow, her limpid eyes dazzlingly blue in the brilliant light. She met his gaze squarely as she voiced her protest against the course adopted.

"O, but, Mr. Temple, the time's so short—less than three weeks now. It isn't safe!"

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

This Is Urgent.

An acquaintance of mine needs help immediately. She has a small child and weighs less than 100 pounds and will be forced to place them in a home in order to go to work unless help is offered. The little girl is without a winter coat and I thought perhaps some one would have one for her or anything else in the line of clothes. There is a boy 7 and a baby 2 years old.

This is a pathetic case and the family must have help. If any one has any kind of clothing for the mother or children I shall be happy to hear from them.

All About Brother.

While in college I attended a dance with a young man of whose dancing and conversational powers I knew nothing. I spent a miserable evening, for he was a disappointment in every way.

After a party the girls at our sorority house always gathered in one room to discuss the evening.

When I came into the room the first question asked was "Well, did you have a nice time?"

I sank wearily into a chair and said, "Girly, there was only one man at that party worse looking—worse in every way than my date—Randall Depew."

Absolute silence reigned. I looked up to see Randall Depew's sister sitting opposite me. My cheeks still burned when I think of this embarrassing incident.

Many of the officers of the army, the national guard and organized reserve of the states, Michigan and Wisconsin, have been invited to attend the reception of the general and his wife. Attending the bride will be the Adjutant, 6th Corp. West Pershing road.

Many weddings are scheduled today, the most important of which, from our information, is that of Miss Elizabeth Channing and Channing Fuller.

This is the wedding day of Miss Virginia Wales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Wales of avenue, Winnetka, who will be married to George D. Bushnell of Evansville, this evening at 5:30 p.m. at Willow Springs, Mo. The service will be performed at 5 o'clock at the residence of the parents, the Rev. Peter W. Channing. “Draw Out Thy Soul to the Hungry, and Satisfy the Afflicted”

A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES:

THE WHITE HOUSE
Washington

October 9, 1922

Gentlemen:

Not since the great war has the whole civilized world been so shocked and startled as during the past four weeks. The terrible and appalling tragedy which has been enacted in the Near East, leaving in its wake hundreds of thousands of shelterless, famished men, women and children makes a call to the heart of the American people which can not be ignored. From East, North, South and West have come to me evidence of the deep-seated desire of our people that something be done to give them an opportunity to crystallize their wide-spread sympathy into a life-saving service.

I am rejoiced to know that the great machinery of your organizations has already been started into action to the end that this great body of suffering souls may be rescued promptly from the threatened starvation and death which they face this winter.

As the people of America have given, and given generously in every great crisis that has occurred in China, Russia, India, &c., I hope great crisis that has occurred in China, Russia, India, and all parts of the world, so they must give, and give a great sum now,—millions of dollars,—if the lives of these victims are to be saved. No appeal of real need from whatever part of the world has ever been made in vain to America.

Very truly yours,
WARREN G. HARDING

George John Barton & wife,
Chairman, American Red Cross
Dr. James L. Barton,
Chairman, Near East Relief.

A LETTER FROM THE NEAR EAST RELIEF:

New York, September 26, 1922

chase. They are stretching their hands to you now out of the horrible pit. Lift them up to life!

The appeal in their behalf which comes to you from the President of the United States is to be heeded, because you are one of the great-hearted Americans to whom his letter is written. The appeal from the Near East Relief and the American Red Cross through their chairmen is to be heeded, because your ears are open to such a call for help in this terrible emergency. But stronger than the call of President, or of Relief Committees, stronger than any urgent words The Literary Digest can say to you, knowing so well your unfailing tenderness and quick generosity when the hunger, and sorrow, and gaunt suffering of mothers and babes cry out to you to comfort, and to save them alive—stronger than all written or spoken appeal is the hot, eager demand of your own sympathetic heart that can not regard such bitter pain and need without straining to the utmost for their instant relief.

The picture is so full of terror and anguish words can not portray it. Mark O. Prentiss, for the Near East Relief, cables: "I have seen terrible sights until my senses are numb, but the sight of 200,000 people, mostly women and children, being penned up and burning, and those escaping being driven to a barren, devastated country for starvation, is past all comprehension." That was in Smyrna. Hundreds of thousands more, both Christians and Jews, fleeing from persecution and the sword are crowding the other ports of Asia and the near-by islands of the sea awaiting rescue—or death. In Salonika a hundred thousand are herded in deplorable confusion. The city has been in ruins since the great fire of 1918 and affords little more shelter than Smyrna. In the island of Mitylene another hundred thousand penniless fugitives have sought refuge only to find there a new danger of pestilence and a more convenient harbor of starvation.

Panic has seized upon the frightened wanderers. Many have even cast themselves into the flames of their own homes. Food is gone, even water to drink is at a premium. Families are broken up, while parents in frenzy of despair seek their lost children. Hundreds of mothers have given premature birth to infants in the midst of terror and death. Half-fed babies, covered with scurvy, try in vain to draw nourishment from their mothers' empty breasts.

Quick compassion is needed; delay means death for scores of thousands who might be saved. Something heroic in giving is needed. You are not there in the midst of the terror and the frantic cries for help. If you were, you would leap into the sea, if need be, or brave the flames, the sword, the plague, to snatch back from death some helpless woman or little child. You would not see them perish in agony before your eyes if you could save them, even at the risk of your life. Here, in this smiling land of comfort, where your home is safe, and your loved ones dwell in peace, that same terror and anguish of helpless women and children come to you across the sea and call to all that is heroic and generous in your heart.

"Whoso hath this world's goods and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him"—ah, but the Master did not mean you. Your heart is warm with compassion and your hand will be open wide with help. Perhaps you will feel a moment of shuddering pity for those shriveled souls, if there be any such in this land of plenty, who revel in abundance and refuse to share it, to whom the Master said, "Woe unto you that are full! for ye shall hunger. Woe unto you that laugh now! for ye shall weep." And then you will seize gladly upon that other divine word of the Christ and send it across the sea with your speedy gifts to comfort and save, and your gifts will make good the message: "Blessed are ye that hunger now; for ye shall be filled. Blessed are ye that weep now; for ye shall laugh!" .

The Literary Digest well knows your good works; it well knows that you are tireless and always ready to save and to comfort. You will now respond instantly to this call. What The Digest has done while waiting to tell you the facts has been done in utter faith in you and in your overwhelming response. The great ship Clontarf has discharged its load of food, and the starving fugitives have already eaten the bread baked from the flour in that cargo. It is you who did this, because when, on September 25th, a committee of the Near East Relief, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. called upon The Literary Digest to help in this awful emergency, and no funds were then available, we discounted our faith in you and borrowed the $176,000 and bought the entire food cargo of the Clontarf. We told the committee to keep on buying other shiploads of food until the pitiful need was satisfied. "He gives twice who gives quickly," and we are confidently depending upon you to make this act your own by a great outpouring of gifts to pay for this first cargo of food and to follow it with others. We appeal to all the churches in America that have been the depositories of the sacred ideals of our nation; we appeal to the thinking and working classes of our broad land, to all the institutions and organizations that have for their object the safeguarding of human rights and human lives. As God has blessed you, as He has given you happy homes and laughing children, as He has been merciful to you, have mercy upon these, His people.

The Literary Digest, standing shoulder to shoulder and heart to heart with you in this urgent task, will start the fund with its own contribution of $10,000 to help feed these starving fugitives. And now we urge all who read these words to send a perfect storm of checks to provide food, and shelter, and medical care for the half-million sufferers in this awful inferno of the Near East.

They can never repay you—those homeless ones, those tortured women and pitiful children. You will never see them face to face, nor look into their eyes shining with gratitude—never? Yes, perhaps you will. But now, the blessed Christ bids you give, and He will repay, for it was He who said, "Do good and lend, hoping for nothing again, and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the Children of the Highest."

President Harding has appointed as a Special Committee, with Will H. Hays as Chairman, the following representatives of eight national organizations who will co-operate in this great work of relief: Dr. John R. Mott, of the Y. M. C. A.; Mrs. John French, of the Y. W. C. A.; James A. Flaherty, of the Knights of Columbus; Felix Warburg, of the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee; Dr. Robert E. Speer, of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America; Dr. James L. Barton, of the Near East Relief; Herbert Hoover, of the American Relief Administration; Judge John Barton Payne, of the American Red Cross; and R. J. Cuddihy, of The Literary Digest.

NO IMPORT FLOOD; TRADE BALANCE OF U. S. GAINING

BY O. A. MATHER.

The theory often heard a month or two ago that other countries would flood our ports with goods last month in anticipation of our new and considerably higher tariff was exploded yesterday when the department of commerce made public the September trade returns.

With every incentive to send commodities to this country before the new tariff became effective, the figures showed that September imports, aggregating $22,000,000, fell $30,000,000 below August. This was the smallest deficit in April, come as surprise, which last April, came as surprise, which was scarcely mitigated by the fact that the September total was $53,000,000 above the same month last year.

U. S. Trade Balance Growing.

On the other hand, our exports last month, aggregating $14,000,000, marked a gain of 15,000,000 from August, but a decline of $7,000,000 from September, last year. The total turnover of American foreign commerce last month represents a decline of about $4,000,000 from August, but a gain of $1,000,000 over September, 1921. The trade balance in favor of the United States last month was $85,000,000, compared with $20,000,000 in August and with $14,000,000 in September, 1921.

A partial explanation issued by the commerce department stated that the lower value of imports and exports since January, 1921, than in the previous four years, did not represent corresponding declines in the volume of trade, but were to a great extent the result of a decline in prices.

Another sidelight on the continued activity of the automobile industry was afforded yesterday in the action of the Stewart-Warren Speedometer Corporation, which has been a quarter divided between $3 to $4. The directors declared a quarterly dividend of $1, instead of the 75 cents paid in the last two quarters. The current dividend is payable Nov. 15 to stockholders of record Oct. 31.

Profits in the quarter ended Sept. 30 were the largest for any similar period in the company's history, being $1,545,078, or 21% above the profits of this year prior to taxes were $4,514,078, equivalent to $7.40 a share on the capital stock, compared with profits of $1,639,732, or $2.10 a share, for all of 1921. Sales for the nine months of this year were 170 per cent above the same period last year. The cash position of the company is strong.

General Trade Impresses.

Reported increasing activity in general trade appeared yesterday. The week-end mercantile news (noted improvement), with perhaps a trifle less of expectant enthusiasm than a week ago, Bradstreet's describes the industrial and distributive situation as "about the best since the late spring of 1920." Doubtless although admitting irregularity and fluctuation in volume of operations, find that "the rising trend of demand is clearly manifest."

The heavy demand for transportation is indicated by reports filed with the American Railway association showing the call for freight cars in excess of the current supply amounted to 131,552 cars on Oct. 19. On the other hand, the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday announced removal of all embargoes on freight originating on its own lines, with the exception of the Northern Grand division.

DRY GOODS AND GARMENT NEWS

KRAZKOWSKI. Fashions, Mass., reported—Many textile companies and retail organizations are on the verge of bankruptcy. One big jobbing house at Brussels has just failed for $25,000,000 crowns. The government is considering a plan to aid industry by reducing taxes, and bank, freight and postal rates.

NEW YORK. Continued activity was reported in the local gray goods market today. The 33 inch, $82.5, 4.75 yards to the pound, is now selling at 10%, while the $80.00 yard, is obtainable only at 10%. All prices are very firm.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. The sudden drop of consumer interest becomes more pronounced in this cotton yarn market. It is believed that quotations for southward carded yarns were advanced too rapidly.

NEW YORK. A movement is on foot to make the next national merchandise fair an event staged jointly by manufacturers and retailers, instead of by retailers only. Representatives of manufacturers' associations will meet next week to consider this matter.

LONDON. Men's clothing manufacturers, figuring on their prices for spring clothing, are basing costs on the expectation of wage reduction next month. Home and business markets are expected to react favorably to lower prices for English clothing.

THREW ME OFF
-LLOYD GEORGE

"I Am Champion"
Rule by People

LEEDS, Oct. 21.—[By the Associated Press.] Charging his down-prime minister of Great Britain with being a scoundrel, David Lloyd George, in defense of his administration today—a defense which he hopes will carry him back into power at the general election which probably will be held within a month.

"Education for the people, difficulties, disarmament, peace in Ireland, more liberty in Ireland, are not things that we have got to give up," said Mr. Lloyd George. "These are not things that we have got to give up in Mayfair, and they have got to be given to us in Belgrave (area of London). It is really important to know that when you have got to give up your strength as I have been doing in trying to serve your country, you aren't forgotten; the first resolution is passed against you in the West End club."

"My whole bent of mind is democratic and progressive. They like it, and they have got to give up some of the old ideas and less. I stand where I always stand for the same sort of things. And there have been some changes in the administration that has pulled through our commerce, and our trade, our commerce, and our agriculture throughout the world; it is a great achievement."

Keeps Future Plans Secret
While defending his administration, Mr. Lloyd George refrained from revealing his plans for the future. Apparently his plans yet formed or his feels that it is not ripe for disclosing them.

"He promised the people the future might bring, he did nothing mean or vicious, he will play no part that is worthy of the confidence placed in him by the people of this country, by the women in the empire."

Mr. Lloyd George did not officially state that it was his purpose to form a Liberal body; he did not say whether he would re-enter politics, from which he had withdrawn. Chamberlain's pronouncement that the Labor party was a menace to the country.

Gets Affectionate Reception
The meeting was held in a picture house because it was the largest hall in Leeds. In the grand auditorium the lime light turned upon Mr. Lloyd George. The crowds were immense, and there was no mistaking the warmth and affectionate nature of their greeting.

Characteristic of the speech was the way in which it lacked personal references which usually give a spice to Mr. Lloyd George's platform appearance. He had no hard words to say about the Star Law, had been a friend, and still is a friend. He declared that those who might possibly join the Morgan caravan could be offered anything he said today.

A much greater assembly was held in the hall than the 3,000 persons who managed to get tickets.

His arrival at the hall, according to Mrs. Lloyd George and her daughter, Meghan, was a signal for a burst of real enthusiasm which was repeated by those who were present.

Lord Alredale, who presided over the meeting, paid tribute to Mr. Lloyd George, as "a statesman, who through the crisis in history had been a source of the people's hope and the hope of the world's desire."

"For He's a Jolly Good Fellow"
The proceedings began with the traditional British ritual of successions, the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." In acknowledgment of the vote of thanks from the audience, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"I have been very much endeared by the kindness which I have received in many quarters. I have my whole life experience which makes me a spectator as the crowd which met me on my arrival in this country. I do not believe that the people of this country will take the lead in this matter. I do not believe that the people of this country will order the world bidding (referring to the formation of the Unionists), and I hope in the next few weeks to fully stake my appeal on the side of this country."

Opens Fire on Foes
With almost the first word of his speech he opened fire on his critics, who by their defeat of him in the cabinet last Thursday.

"The banner of party strife floated at the Carlton club," he said. "The great combination of
